A Unseen Passage

Once upon a time, there was a giant who lived on a mountain top. The giant asks a question to the travellers who visit there. If the travellers could not give the right answer, the giant used to eat them. The question was, "What moves first on four feet, then on two and finally on three?" Many travellers died because they could not answer. One day a young man reached the mountain top. The angry giant stopped him and asked him the question. The man said, "A human being." Then he explained, "When we are babies, we crawl with the help of our two legs and two arms. Then as we grow we walk upright on two feet and when we are very old, we use a stick to walk. The stick is our third leg in old age." The giant was very happy and he gave a reward to the young man.
