Section A - Reading

I. Read the given passage and answer the questions that follow:

1. Good health is the soundness of the body, mind and soul. It develops creativity and ensures the welfare of society. If a person suffers from a disease, he needs treatment not only for that particular disease but for the whole body, mind and soul. Thus, a doctor has to have a sound approach towards the patient.
2. Nowadays doctors cure patients only for their immediate diseases. Such an approach goes against the old proverb - prevention is better than cure. Doctor Hegde provides insight into the overall causes of diseases and suggests preventive methods like exercising, yoga, meditation, diet regulation, anti-smoking and anti-alcoholic habits.
3. Hegdes stresses the importance of laughter because laughter induces secretion of catecholamines which are hormones produced by the adrenal gland. They are harmful while a person is angry, but beneficial if he laughs.
4. To avoid stress everyone needs to lead a relaxed life. The best form of relaxation is sound sleep. "Restful sleep at night will charge our batteries for the following day's fruitful endeavours," says Hegde. If one is lying on the bed and tossing without sleep, it is better to read or engage oneself in some light mental activity. Never seek refuge in alcoholic drinks or sleeping pills. Eight hours of sleep a day is sufficient. More than 9 to 10 hours of sleep a day would produce increased muscle protein loss in the body and might even shorten one's life.
5. The author stresses on balanced diet and daily exercise and the dangers of over-exercising in these days of fitness mania.
