One sunny morning, Aarav was walking to school when he noticed a little bird sitting on the ground. Its wing was hurt, and it could not fly. Aarav felt sorry for the bird. He carefully picked it up and placed it in a safe corner under a tree. Just then, his friend Rohan came by. Together, they brought some water and grains for the bird. They decided to tell their teacher about it. Their teacher praised them for being kind and caring. She helped them make a small shelter for the bird. For the next few days, Aarav and Rohan looked after the bird. They gave it food and water every morning. Slowly, the bird became stronger. One day, it spread its wings and flew into the blue sky. 2.	Read the passage carefully and answer the following questions that follow. Ants are tiny insects, but they are very hardworking and organised. They usually live together in groups called colonies. Each colony has different kinds of ants with different jobs. The queen lays eggs, while worker ants collect food, care for the young ones, and keep the nest clean. Ants are also excellent team workers. They can carry objects that are much heavier than their own bodies. They communicate with one another using smells and touch. When a worker ant finds food, it leaves a special smell trail for other ants to follow. Some ants build their nests underground, while others make nests in trees or under stones. Ants play an important role in nature because they help loosen the soil and carry seeds to different places. Although they are small, ants teach us the importance of teamwork, discipline, and hard work. 1. Why do worker ants leave a smell trail? a) To warn birds b) To help other ants find food c) To keep the nest clean d) To attract the queen 2. What can we infer from the fact that ants carry objects heavier than their bodies? a) Ants are good team workers. b) Ants do not need food. c) Ants prefer to live alone. d) Ants are the largest insects. 3.
